Whitehead's Homer Gives Kings A Win

Boopie Whitehead hit a three-run homer in the top of the eighth inning last Wednesday night to give King's Market a 9-8 win over McDaniel - Kelly in the Class "A" league in Lynchburg. The win evens King's record at 3-3 for the second half and was the first lost for McDaniel-Kelly in this half and gave them a 6-1 mark.

Whitehead's home run came in the top of the eighth after Bradley Babcock reached base on an error and Alvin Phelps got on by a fielder's choice. That blast made it 9-6 and McDaniel-Kelly scored two runs in the last of the inning before the side could retire. The score went back and forth as King's led 2-1 after one inning, 3-1 after two, trailed 5-3 after four, led 6-5 after five and it was tied 6-6 after six.

Doug Mitchell, Buddy Wilcox and Ronnie Coleman led King's with two hits each, Lindsey and Boyer led McDaniel-Kelly with three hits each and Grey had two hits for them.

McDaniel-Kelly out hit Kings 12-11, but the defense for Kings was outstanding as they reeled off double played in the second, third and fourth innings to get themselves out of jams after men had reached base and scoring threats started.

Kings Lose 10-2 In State Tournament

Woolco, of Charlottesville, beat King's Market 10-2 in the opening round of the Virginia State Slow Pitch Softball Tournament held in Lynchburg last week end. Woolco then went on to become runner-up to Rumley's of Martinsville for the championship and go to the regionals in Richmond later on.

Kings had a big disappointment in both their hitting and fielding in the lost as they collected only seven hits and made seven errors, Jimmy Mayberry had two hits to lead Kings and Buddy Wilcox drove in both runs.

What's New In Catfish Farming?

by R. E. McClenny, Jr.
Soil Conservationist,
Appomattox County

We frequently get inquiries from local people interested in catfish farming. Many have read stories in farm magazines featuring successful catfish farming operations. Some of these stories are quite exciting and have stimulated some local interest.

Although catfish are native to almost all waters of the U.S., commercial farm production has been concentrated in the Gulf Coast and Southern half of the Mississippi River drainage system. About 80% of the U.S. production of pond raised catfish comes from the Mississippi Delta area. This region has several characteristics that lend itself to fish production. The warm temperature, impervious soils which are easily impounded and the abundant water supply lend itself to fish production.

Catfish grow rapidly if properly fed when water temperature is over 70 degrees. Growth is slow between 60 - 70 degrees and little growth occurs when water is cooler than 60 degrees. Fish will grow faster in the Southern states.

Fish farming is a relatively new industry. It generally requires a higher level of management than conventional agriculture. The fish must be fed daily. Commericial growers must have several ponds. Breeding ponds and rearing ponds must be separate. The small fry are caught when the pond is drained and placed in a rearing pond. Commercial producers must have ponds they can drain and harvest the fish, then refill the pond quickly.

With the disadvantage in our area of climate, water, experience, and markets, anyone interested in commercial catfish production should very carefully consider the cost of production and expected returns. The best way to harvest catfish in our area seems to be fee-fishing. By combining outdoor recreation with the sale of fish, producers can get more returns per pound of fish. Only a few such operations would be practical and they would have to be well located near other recreation activities.

For new ponds, SCS can assist the owner in ordering channel catfish. These fish are stocked in the fall along with bluegill. Unless spawning devices are provided, catfish can not reproduce in a pond. They must have an enclosure so they can protect from other fish. Generally, catfish in local farm ponds are not fed.

Sportsmen are often tempted to put Bullhead catfish or other wild fish they catch to their pond. It is impossible to manage ponds with these wild species.

Farmers Bulletin #2244 on catfish farming is available through the local Soil Conservation Service office.

Seek Funds For Band Uniforms

Appomattox doesn't have 76 trombones to put into its high school marching band – but there are plenty of instruments and talented young musicians to play them.

What APPOMATTOX DOES NEED – is a little help FROM ALL FRIENDS – to give $1 - $5 - or more to help purchase band uniforms.

Mrs. Ray Noble is chairman of the Band Parents Fund drive. Mrs. Irene Kanipe is treasurer . . . . and they and their committees want to ask EVERYONE who received a letter asking for funds to buy the uniforms to send in a donation, large or small. Please mail those checks to Mrs. Irene Kanipe, Band Uniforms, Appomattox.

It will soon be time to "strike up the band" for football games – parades and other school activities at Appomattox County High School. The boys and girls can be neatly and smartly uniformed if EVERYONE WILL HELP.

TOPPING TOBACCO AT PARK

For tourists from the north "topping tobacco" is something new and Henry Chernault, staff member at Appomattox Court House National Historical Park, obliges some visitors and the camera by demonstrating the old-time procedure in topping out. Plants that are not "topped" use up plant food and energy sending up blooms and small leaves that are nearly worthless at harvest time. "Suckering", or cutting off small shoots is the next step before harvest. The demonstration field at the Park has a variety of plants, including green peppers, tomatoes and flowers. In the background are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Flynn, of Winston-Salem, N. C., Dale and Denise. "Topping" is nothing new to them, of course, for one thing, Mrs. Flynn was reared on a farm.
